The image shows a large-scale construction project for a bio-energy plant. The main structure is a long, elevated walkway or platform made of grey steel I-beams. A worker in an orange safety vest and white helmet is positioned on a wooden plank scaffold high up on the structure. In the foreground, two more workers in orange vests and white helmets are standing on the ground, looking towards the structure. The ground is dirt and there are some construction materials like bricks and pipes scattered around. In the background, there's a large, curved concrete wall, possibly a retaining wall or part of a larger facility. The sky is overcast and grey.

RELIANCE BIO - ENERGY PLANT, Haryana

The image shows a large-scale construction project at dusk or dawn. A worker in a red safety vest and helmet is positioned on a tall metal scaffolding structure, working on a large, rectangular metal frame that appears to be part of a solar panel array or a similar industrial structure. The frame is composed of numerous horizontal and vertical metal beams. In the background, a yellow tower crane stands prominently against the dark sky. The ground is uneven and covered with construction materials, including stacks of bricks and other debris. The overall scene conveys a sense of active industrial development.
